Short and hot.Von MagritteThis morning I just woke up too early and chose to buy this book to keep me in bed just a bit longer.What I mainly fear when buying short novels is that the characters development remains too superficial. This was however not a problem. Mrs. Espino manages to depict interesting and deep characters in only 130 pages.Eva is a

22 year old girl who does not know much of the world outside of her families' farm and the friendship she shares with the two twin neighbors Colton and North. When she decides to go to the city of present two of her cows the men are afraid for her and convince her father that she can't go alone. Eva wanted to prove that she is a grown up and eventually meet a man to spend her life with. Cole and North coming with her might represent more of a problem than she initially thought. Eva is the light and innocence in Cole and North's life. They are haunted by the darkness of their evil father and the addicted mother and seeing Eva flirt take their desire for her friendship to another level. When Eva acknowledges that she loves them, both she does not accept them to refuse her. And why would they refuse her? The story is really hot at moments. Eva annoyed me a bit being too innocent, but after all it fits perfectly into the story. I enjoyed the book it was a kinky snack when you don't want to read something too long. I however think that it is a bit expensive. Anyway, enjoy the read MBTM
