KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Meet Izzy and the gray-haired knitting detectives - a hilarious readVon Karen O.This book focuses on Izzy, widowed for five years, being thrown into a speed-dating session by her best friend Jack. With Murder, Mystery Dating Mayhem, D. E. Haggerty has created an expertly worded and very funny suspense story with a romantic touch. The story comprises a broad variety of characters with sufficient depth, hilarious moments and interesting interactions to solve the case of the dead grandma. I had a great time reading Murder, Mystery Dating Mayhem - it is a very fun read. I was drawn into the story right away, chuckling about the cute gray-haired knitting detectives and their ways, cheering Izzy on, trying to find the culprit and hoping that Izzy really gets her man. I must confess that I do not really like the cover's colour - I am more into greenish, blackish and bluish shades. This is for you if you like female amateur sleuths, stubborn women, hilarious situations as well as a great combination of (cozy) suspense, humour and romance. A funny and suspenseful book and/or series to read again. Recommended! 4.4 stars

KurzbeschreibungMy name is Izzy. I drink too much, am clumsier than a newborn foal, and my brain-to-mouth filter often malfunctions. My daredevil husband killed himself in a parachuting accident five years ago and my best friend Jack has decided its time I jump back in the dating pool. Hes perfectly happy to throw me in if I dont listen. Just when things in the dating world start to heat up, my grandma dies. Only her knitting group of Jessica Fletcher wannabes is sure its murder. Im not convinced but Im always up for a bit of excitement as long as it doesnt lead to a night in jail. Well, more than one night anyway. Will I miss my chance at love because Im chasing imaginary killers? Did someone really kill grandma or am I and my merry band of geriatric thieves imagining things?KurzbeschreibungMy name is Izzy. After spending my senior year of high school in Germany, I developed a bad case of wanderlust that is yet to be cured. My flying Dutch husband and I have lived in Ohio, Virginia, the Netherlands, Germany and now Istanbul. We still havent decided if we want to settle down somewhere let alone where. Although Ive been a military policewoman, a commercial lawyer, and a BB owner, I think with writing I may have finally figured out what I want to be when I grow up. Thats assuming I ever grow up, of course. Between tennis, running, traveling, singing off tune, drinking entirely too many adult beverages, and reading books like they are going out of style, I write articles for a local expat magazine and various websites, review other indie authors books, write a blog about whatever comes to mind and am working on my fifth book.
