Murder Takes a Dare. I loved following Marisa as she tried to solve the string of murders with her crazy sidekicks. No one was who you thought they were with disguises and interconnected relationships. I was waiting for the confession from the killer almost like the "I would have gotten away with it if it weren't for those pesky kids!" I loved the banter and back and forth between Clay and Althea too as they suspected almost everyone in the nursing home. Ms. Ryker did a great job of keeping the story moving the whole way through, avoiding the "saggy middle". I will say that there are so many characters that it was a little confusing at times to keep everything straight, but they all had their fun purpose to the story. There were also numerous mentions of the bosom towards the beginning which actually became comical and made me laugh. If you are looking for a light and fun read and enjoy mysteries, I would highly recommend Murder Takes a Dare! I look forward to reading the sequel.

Her characters are so exquisitely revealed they blur the lines between real life and fiction. Marisa Adair is your seemingly average 9-5 worker with a dark partying addiction when the sun goes down. Her life takes a turn for the worst when she is pulled into the murder investigation of Jonah Graham and a spin of events that will dramatically turn her life around. This is a passionately, masterfully written tale, ripe with mystery and intrigue. If you are looking for a book that is un-put-downable, grab your copy of this!

Kurzbeschreibung "I've gotten myself in too deep--" Jonah's last words are an epitaph to a life spent on the wrong side of the law. Marisa Adair is shocked when Jonah, a former friend from her chaotic past of drinking and partying, surfaces only to be murdered. She must solve the crime before the killer destroys her new life. To find the murderer, Marisa partners with unusual collaborators. Dithering Russell is focused on ferreting out secrets, including her colorful past. Childhood friend Alex is a chief financial officer and the chief pain in her . . . neck. Esther is the daughter of a former agent in the FBI's controversial "Dickless Tracy" program for women. She learned to disable an opponent in hand-to-hand combat around the same time she learned to spell and throw the quintessential tea party. Marisa must revisit her dark past of childhood deprivation and adult struggles with addiction. The clues point to the shadowy underbelly of a notorious club, the setting for the glittering fool's gold of her old double life. Can Marisa and her friends solve the mystery before the murderer strikes again?

ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende KINDLE SCOUT WINNER Jada Ryker snagged the Kindle Press publishing contract for her new book, Take the Body and Run, through s Kindle Scout program. The contemporary mystery/romance is about a hunted woman hiding under a dead friend's identity, a handsome lawman, a death doctor with fart machine-will travel, and a cranky cat with a nose for crime. Its expected to be released September 2016. Jada is the author of Dog Days of Karma, the first Carr - Maah Consulting mystery/paranormal novel; A Pink Zombie, with a Mist, a Shaken, Not Stirred, mystery/horror adventure; and Murder Takes a Dare, the first book in the Takes a Dare mystery series. The books combine humor and murder in a total package of entertaining and fun southern adventures. At the same time, Jada sketches in addiction/recovery issues and childhood angst with a deft and compassionate touch. Jada spent the first twenty-odd years of her life in rural Kentucky, many of those years without electricity or running water. In her writings, Jada draws upon her early years of deprivation. Now, she lives in central Kentucky with her wonderful husband and their cat, rescued from the animal shelter. In her day job, Jada works in higher education. She holds a masters degree in public administration. Jada's mystery adventures are available on in electronic and paperback formats.
