KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. A recommendable book for everybody who loves to read!Von Merle BraamsI bought the book visiting the US and it really was a good choice!If you love to read this book is perfect for you:It combains different genres such as love story, thriller and some erotic scenes.The book takes place in a small town in New Hampshire which was quite interesting for me as I spend my vacation in a small town in the US every year. The detailed descriptions give you the possibility to become part of the fictional story. I also enjoyed the style of writing as it was not as difficult to understand as other books I read before. And there are also some dialectic parts typical for the East coast to be found. Buy the book, read the book and make up your mind!

Kurzbeschreibung TERROR STALKS A SMALL NEW HAMPSHIRE TOWN When Police Officer Jacqueline Jake Kilborn stops at Carlsons Convenience Store to get a soda for lunch, she walks past the four motorcycles parked out front without a second thought. But when the towering Nordic beauty steps through the door, a bullet slams into her shoulder. She has walked in on a robbery in progress. Despite her injury, the former Marine officer kills three of the suspects and critically wounds the fourth: Charles Ace Foster, a twisted sociopath fond of using large knives. At his trial, as Foster is dragged from the courtroom in shackles, he screams obscenities at the witnesses and Officer Kilborn, threatening to cut them to pieces when he gets the chance. Several years later the sadistic biker is released from prison early due to overcrowding and Chief Jake Kilborn begins receiving threatening letters signed only with a crudely drawn ace of spades. Unsure when and where Foster will strike first, she and her department are on full alert in an effort to stop him before he can make good on his threats. Things are complicated by the arrival of a handsome biker and Jake is at odds over her growing attraction to the Harley-riding stranger and her fear that he is in league with Foster. Soon Jake will find herself the unwilling focal point in a battle of wills involving obsession, love, seduction, fear, betrayal, and murder all because of a man she loves.
