die eine romantische Ader haben.

Kurzbeschreibung You might wonder if we are richer or poorer when a dream is once fulfilled. What can possibly take its place? Memories? Regrets? Disappointment? Or perhaps other dreams? Sheila Henry is a never-married school teacher from small-town Iowa who finally finds out in Italy. Like his protagonists, William Geuss has lived in many places in the course of career stints as teacher, social worker, software marketer, and translator--including Germany, Switzerland and Chicago. Neapolitan Nights is part of his first collection of short stories, Finding the Way Home.
